“ I was so sorry to hear of Mr. Robinson's death. He was a wonderful, joyful person who always greeted everyone warmly and never forgot my name! He was a wonderful presence at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago's Brain Injury Support Group, and lifted the group's spirits every time he came. My sincere condolences to his family.

“ Bye Al, you were a mainstay at Saint Margaret's and for a good while at SEAK. Always quick-witted and friendly, never hesitating to tell it like it is. Your with your HP now. God bless you, Al! Larry Bailey

“ Charles "Al" you were a man I admired from afar before I had the opportunity to meet you. You were a gentleman and a man of distinction while always making certain that you stayed humble. You helped many younger men who were caught up in either the throws of addiction or sidelined by physical injury and a life of chronic pain. May you rest in peace now and in the eternal love of our Creator.

“ My condolences to the Robinson family. Al (that's what he was known to us as) spoke of you often. He was a good friend to my husband and me, and came over to our house to pray with us when our adult son was diagnosed with cancer a few years ago. He began his prayer: "Father God..." and that says it all. His humility and courage in the face of his own difficulties is what stood out most. He often surprised us with his uncanny knack for getting 'right to the heart' of a situation and being able to see and speak the truth, even as some of us struggled with it. I will miss our phone calls, breakfasts, visits to the lakefront and all the joy and help that Al brought to us. Love you, Al. Your 'Paper Tiger,' Liz

“ Having light-hearted talks or deep discussions nearly every week for many years gives a real insight to an individual. And Charles was at the top of any list we could have in the RIC Life Center, where he served as a peer mentor-- primarily to persons who had had a stroke. He was very faithful to his mission of bringing hope and good conversation and a few wonderful laughs to patients and staff every week. He rarely missed a Wednesday in all of the years that he provided his special gifts. He was a man of strong faith, usually visiting the RIC Chapel to ask for guidance and strength before heading to chat with the patients. Frequently, he related topics that his church was discussing in classes or sermons. His sensitive sense of humor helped him get his message through to patients and to all of us staff members who truly enjoyed his time with us. Charles, I will truly miss seeing you tomorrow--Wednesday--at noon and all future Wednesdays. While we treasured your presence with us, we know that you are on the journey that you had been planning for. May God bless you and all of your dear family members. My best, Marcia

“ We are truly sorry for your loss. Charles was part of our RIC family as one of our treasured peer mentors. His continued dedication to RIC and the LIFE Center was remarkable and made a significant difference in the lives of our patients, families and staff. We will never forget the instrumental role he played in showing others that having a disability does not impede your dreams or ability to participate in life.

Our deepest sympathies are with you and your family at this time.

*Best,
Lisa Rosen
Manager, RIC's LIFE Center*

“ As one of our founding LIFE Center Peer mentors, Charles stayed true to sharing gifts of encouragement and love with hundreds of people. His gentle communication and genuine listening provided comfort and hope for a bright future. I am so saddened by this loss though enormously thankful for the lessons he imparted to me and others. No doubt he's continuing a fantastic new journey. Love you Charles. God Bless.

“ Charles brightened up the Wednesday noon hour at RIC. He brought much charm, laughter and passion to his work as a peer volunteer. His presence truly brightened my day. The simple request to borrow my pen or to race me to say Good morning or afternoon was part of our routine. The deepest talk of a Sunday service or what he learned from a visit to the patient floor was something he and I both enjoyed. I will miss you Charles - as the clock hits noon - your presence will be felt. Kiss kiss - your friend - jamee
