Tribute Wall

“ Hello, I am not sure that this is the Karen Harrington that I met in San Antonio, Texas back in 2011? She was my counselor at Family Services Association. She literally changed my life and taught me so much on how to move on within a major crisis life event. I have thought about her so many times through the years and have been wanting to find her again to be my counselor. I previously did a search and found nothing because couldn't remember her last name. Today was my second attempt to find her online when I came across a business card with appointment date while cleaning out items held onto for yours which then led me to this thread. My heart sank when I saw she is gone. Again, I am not sure if this is the same Karen, but if it is I am truly shocked and heartbroken. However, if this not the same Karen I knew, this woman here is extraordinary also and a huge loss with sadness for everyone who knew her. She sounds exactly like the Karen I knew and have been looking for since I met her in 2011. May she rest in peace. Ameen.

“ May God bless your family. Karen was an awesome social worker , who was very passionate abouther worker. She and i would go at it becuase she had what she need in her mind but i sometimes missed her cues. But When I would say Karen tell me what you need, She would like OOH, let me explain it to you!! Then we were GOOD! I admired her commitment despite her health challenges. She is a great example for us to press our way through!

“ Karen and I became friends over twenty five (25) years ago while working at the Department Of Children and Family Services (DCFS) and remained friends till this day. I will always remember the beautiful memories we shared, (camping, French Lick, picnics, dinners and when we took my two foster children to Hawaii). Karen was a beautiful young women, smart, caring and never said a negative word about anyone. I will miss her and I am sending prayers to her family and friends. R.I.P. my friend
